

Hearing Devices Program

The Hearing Devices Program is intended for persons insured under the Health Insurance Plan who have a hearing deficiency.

The program covers the cost of purchasing, repairing and replacing hearing aids and assistive listening devices for eligible persons.

To benefit from the program

Consult an audiologist (to have your degree of hearing loss evaluated by means of an audiogram) and obtain an attestation confirming that you need a hearing aid and assistive listening devices. In addition to your degree of hearing loss, the audiologist will take into account your other needs. For example, if you are a student or are working, the audiologist will take that fact into consideration.

To take an audiogram and obtain the required attestation, adults under age 65 may, if they wish, consult an ear, nose and throat (ENT) specialist.

Then...

To obtain a hearing aid, you must consult a hearing aid acoustician and provide him/her with the results of your audiogram and the attestation from the audiologist or ENT specialist. The hearing aid acoustician will provide you with the hearing aid you need.

To obtain assistive listening devices, you must go to an assistive listening devices distributor with the results of your audiogram and the attestation from the audiologist.

The distributor will provide you with devices such as a telephone amplifier, a doorbell or telephone ring detector, or an adapted alarm clock.

The lists of distributors of assistive hearing devices and audioprosthesis are available in the Aid programs section of our website.

Servicing, repair and replacement

When you receive a hearing device, the distributor or hearing aid acoustician informs you of your responsibilities regarding servicing of the device.

Hearing aids are guaranteed for at least two years, assistive listening devices for at least one year. Thereafter, RAMQ covers the cost of repairs if you continue to fulfill the conditions for allocating the device.

RAMQ will defray the replacement cost in the following situations:

- your hearing deficiency or physical condition has changed
- your hearing devices are accidentally damaged
- they have deteriorated prematurely, for example because of excess perspiration acidity
- the cost of a single repair exceeds 70% of the purchase price (during the first six years of use)
- the total cost of repairs made to the device exceeds, from the seventh year onwards, 60% of the purchase cost, or the device no longer operates under normal conditions

Please note that RAMQ will not pay these costs if your hearing aids must be repaired or replaced because they were lost, stolen or used negligently. It is recommended that you check to see whether your insurance covers such risks.

Remember...

When you benefit from the Hearing Devices Program, you don't pay anything for insured services. Hearing aid acousticians and assistive listening device distributors, who inform you about these services, are paid by RAMQ.
